

QUIT KIND HUSBAND NO. 2 FOR ONE WHO DESERTED HER

Becomes Wife of Former, She Declares, When He Said First Spouse Would Be Executed.

Mrs. Rose Stankowicz, a pretty Hungarian, of No. 1018 First Avenue, told a unique story to Assistant District Attorney Rohan and repeated it to the Grand Jury to-day when she was before that body on a charge of bigamy.

She said she came to this country when she was sixteen (she is now twenty-three) and was married to George Stankowicz, then eighteen. Stankowicz, the woman said, abandoned her, joining the army, from which he deserted. He was arrested and sent to Fort Leavenworth.

Then Charles J. Gancu of No. 301 East Thirty-eighth Street, an electrician, appeared. He, too, had been in the army and according to the young woman, told her she would never see her husband again, that deserters from the army were summarily executed. Gancu married her Aug. 17, 1912.

She was happy up to a year ago when she met Stankowicz on the street.

"All my old love for him returned," Mrs. Stankowicz told Mr. Rohan. He had never treated me right and Charles had made me happy, but I wanted George. Next day I went back to George.

Gancu later reported to the police that a man named Stankowicz had a revolver and heroin in his room. Detectives arrested both Mr. and Mrs. Stankowicz. It was before Magistrate Nolan that the story of the bigamous marriage came out. After discharging Stankowicz, the Magistrate held Mrs. Stankowicz and Gancu. It was the charges against them that the Grand Jury considered to-day.

Jail and Big Fines for Union Men and Corporations.

CHICAGO, March 23.—Michael J. Boyle, former business agent of the Electrical Workers' Union, was sentenced to-day to a year in the House of Correction and to pay $5,000. Raymond Cleary, who was Boyle's assistant, received sixty days and a fine of $500. Nine other business agents and members of electric companies were fined from $500 to $2,000 each. It was charged that the defendants conspired by means of strikes to keep outside electrical firms from getting contracts in Chicago.

Acid Stomachs Are Dangerous

Tells Common Sense Way to Treat Indigestion.

Medical authorities claim that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

"Acid" stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis, accompanied by dangerous gastric ulcers.

Ordinary stomach medicines or "after dinner pills" that act only on the stomach walls or lining, or artificially digest and force the acid food contents from the stomach to the intestine, are inadequate in such cases, for they leave the source of the trouble, the excess acid in the stomach, as dangerous as ever.

Such cases are well treated by the use of a simple antacid and astringent, which will act upon the stomach contents, neutralize the acidity of the food and tend to prevent the further excessive formation of acid.

There is an excellent treatment for this purpose, namely, a teaspoonful of ordinary bicarbonate of soda, taken in a little hot or cold water, after eating. Butters from acid indigestion, sour stomach and heartburn should get a small bottle of Bismarck Magnesia (either powder or tablets)—never liquid from any good druggist, and they may expect that the distress ordinarily caused by their food will be avoided. If the above directions are followed.—Adv.
